Effective immediately, CHEERS is offering another method of meeting the pre-requisites for participation in the Existing Housing training class. Previously, the Existing House training class was only open to CHEERS certified Core Raters. CHEERS will now offer a one-day training immediately preceding the Existing Housing training class that will meet this prerequisite. Participants will be able to attend the one-day prerequisite class on Monday and the four-day Existing Housing class on Tuesday – Friday. Successfully completing both of these classes will allow you to perform all of the tasks of a CHEERS certified Existing Housing Rater.

This class is the most intensive training that CHEERS® offers. The class includes basic building science and building diagnostic testing procedures. You will use a duct tester, blower door, identify insulation and determine equipment efficiencies. The CHEERS® Core class is a prerequisite if you want to do work in Title 24/or the HVAC change-out market. If you do not want to be certified for Title 24 you can take the one day Testing Diagnostic class prior to the Existing Home class. You will be provided with a training book and should come to class prepared to tackle a new aspect of being a CHEERS® Rater. Instead of just verifying the installation of measures, you will be performing an energy rating of the home. You will be able to make recommendations to the homeowner and you might be working with a contractor to ensure that the conservation features are correctly installed. This training and CHEERS® Rater tool software will open up new opportunities for CHEERS Raters.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Business Professionals, HVAC, Electrical & General Contractors, Architects, Engineers, Builders, Auditors, Inspectors, Designers and Consultants.
